

J. H. Cullum Clark is Director of the George W. Bush Institute-SMU Economic Growth Initiative, the economic policy arm of the George W. Bush Presidential Center, and Adjunct Professor of Economics at Southern Methodist University. Cullum leads the Bush Institute's program on domestic economic policy, focusing on improving opportunity and upward mobility in the United States economy. He previously served as President of Prothro Clark Company, a family investment firm in Dallas, and continues as a Senior Advisor of the firm. He began his career in 1992 as a Research Analyst for the U.S. Senate Select Committee on Intelligence. He served from 1993 to 1996 as a Portfolio Manager and Senior Analyst at Brown Brothers Harriman in New York. From 1996 to 2000, Cullum was a Senior Analyst at Warburg Pincus Asset Management and Portfolio Manager of two mutual funds focused on small public companies around the world. From 2000 to 2002, he was the Managing Partner of a small hedge fund based in Dallas.

Cullum serves on several public and cultural institutions including the Boards of Trustees of the Vin and Caren Prothro Foundation, Eugene McDermott Foundation and S.M. Wright Foundation, the Investment Committee of Southern Methodist University, the Board of Governors of Uplift Education, the National Council of World Wildlife Fund USA, and the Governing Board of the Yale University Art Gallery. He chairs the board for the Foundation for the Arts, a supporting organization for the Dallas Museum of Art. He has also served on the boards of the Dallas Zoological Society, AT&T Performing Arts Center, the Episcopal School of Dallas, and the University of Texas at Dallas Center for Brain Health, as well as the Vestry of Saint Michael and All Angels Church.

He earned a B.A. in History from Yale University, summa cum laude, a Master's Degree in Political Science from Harvard University, and a Ph.D. in Economics from Southern Methodist University. His dissertation research focused on monetary policy, financial asset prices, and household wealth disparities.

Cullum is married to Nita Prothro Clark, and the couple have three daughters, Lili, Annabel, and Charlotte.